

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen "Indiana's telephone privacy" law's protection.

The current "Indiana Telephone Privacy Law" has once again brought tranquility and peace to our evenings at home, and we have the constitutional right to peace and tranquility!! The big business friends of the U.S. government that are trying to buy away my privacy thru political favors and donations have no inalienable right to my time or phone number. If I want to listen to a sales man or buy their products I will go to the stores. I should not be inconvenienced because of their poor business practices and greed.

The current Indiana law has been quite effective in serving the voters and taxpayers of the State of Indiana and we don't need the ineptness of another Federal agency with dubious intent screwing with our state and infringing on our liberties.
